GOP Senators Request Speed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eight Republican senators said yesterday they want the government to move further and faster to combat unemployment than President Eisenhower thus far has proposed.

In a statement following up Eisenhower's announcement Saturday of a stepped-up federal spending program, the eight called for "immediate action on a scale big enough to do the job" of scaling the business recession.

SEATO Turns Aside Attack By Russia

MANILA (AP)—Foreign ministers assembling for a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization meeting brushed aside yesterday a new Soviet attack on their anti-Communist alliance.

The Soviet Union assailed SEATO in a broadcast Saturday night, duplicating tactics employed just before the NATO meeting in Paris last December.

The Soviet statement called SEATO a tool of Western colonialism, and warned members they would lay themselves open to nuclear destruction if they permit nuclear and missile bases on their soil. The foreign ministers conference opens Monday.

Philippine Foreign Secretary Felixberto Serrano, host for the 8-nation meeting, said the Soviet denunciation was another attempt to intimidate and weaken the alliance.

"We cannot be deluded," he said.

Richard G. Casey of Australia and Prime Minister Walter Nash of New Zealand ridiculed the Russian call for an atomic-free zone and a system of collective security in Asia and the Far East.

Pote Sarasin of Thailand, SEATO secretary general, said the Russian attack was nothing new, adding: "It usually comes each year. I expected it earlier."

Member nations are the Philippines, the United States, Britain, France, Pakistan, Australia, New Zealand and Thailand.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd told newsmen on his arrival he wanted some side discussions with Secretary of State Dulles and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau on a summit conference with the Russians.

Agreement Reached On Major Points

NEW YORK (AP)—Striking garment workers and dress manufacturers reached agreement on money issues last night and appeared headed for full settlement today or tomorrow.

Former Sen. Herbert Lehman, acting as mediator of the five-day old strike of 105,000 dressmakers, said the agreement was on an 11.5 per cent package increase.

He predicted settlement of still-disputed non-money issues—concerning contract enforcement—in the next two days.

The 11.5 per cent package includes an eight per cent increase in base pay, cost of living increases amounting to three per cent more, and payroll deduction for severance pay of one half of one per cent.

The dispute, first major strike by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union in 25 years, has affected nine eastern states in all.

An estimated 75 per cent of the country's dress production has been halted by the walkout.

Key Issues
Lehman defined the economic issues as overtime pay, holidays and severance pay.

Before the strike started, the union had reduced its demands for a 22 per cent package increase to 15 per cent. It also sought stricter contract enforcement provisions—a key issue—other benefits, and overtime for piece workers after 36 hours a week.

Management's last known offer was for a wage rise of 5 per cent and overtime payments after 37 1/2 hours.

Lehman made his statement after several hours of separate meetings between the mediators and union and employer representatives.

He said the next questions to be discussed were those of contract enforcement and union organization of small firms furnishing materials to dress manufacturers.

Public Works
A group of influential House Democrats proposed Sunday a 2 1/2-billion-dollar loan program for public works projects in recession hit communities.

Chairman Blatnik (D-Minn.) of the House Public Works Committee announced he will introduce legislation to activate such projects for which funds already have been appropriated.

Blatnik said in an ABC radio interview—"As We See It"—his bill will call for a coordinator to order action on authorized public works projects in communities suffering heavy unemployment.

He said it is a companion measure to one being pushed in the Senate by Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.).

Eisenhower said he will ask Congress to provide federal money to extend for "a brief period" unemployment compensation benefits for some of the more than 15 million persons who now are jobless. White House press secretary James Hagerty said he understood the extension would be for some months.

Killed In Accident
POTTSTOWN (AP)—Marvin W. Thrasher, 29, of Pottstown, was killed Saturday night when the car he was driving skidded off the side of an on-coming car and rolled into a ditch off a rural road in Douglas Township four miles north of here.

Long Time
"We have known each other for a long time and I would say we have been close friends for 15 years," the 49-year-old Hilton said.

"Our philosophies of government are virtually identical," Hilton was a longtime young Republican leader in Pennsylvania. If he chooses to run it would be his first attempt to secure an elected post in the state.

Last week the GOP steering committee backed Arthur T. McGonigle, Reading, for governor, and Rep. Hugh Scott, Philadelphia, for the U.S. Senate.

Hilton broke with the GOP organization in 1948 in a presidential convention dispute. He returned to politics in 1952 as head of the veterans division of the Republican National Committee.

New Love For Ingrid
GOTEBURG, Sweden (AP)—Side by side in a lush courtyard, Ingrid Bergman and Swedish millionaire Lars Schmidt told newsmen Sunday they planned to spend the summer together on a little Swedish island.

The newsmen asked if they are planning to marry.

"We can neither deny nor confirm that," Schmidt said. "That says a lot, doesn't it?"

Schmidt said he recently bought a house on the island off the west coast of Sweden.

Gifted Teachers Still In Demand

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles on Monroe County education. Each will be based on the results of the county-wide survey conducted by the author for The Daily Record.)

By Leonard Randolph
DURING RECENT months there has been much talk about "challenging" the gifted child.

Since the very nature of all education is, or should be, a challenge the question becomes somewhat more complex than merely presenting challenging and imaginative material to the more able child.

If there must be a challenge to the gifted child, then it stands to reason that the teacher, too, will be challenged. The presentation of textbook material in a manner provocative enough to make the child want to learn more "on his own"; the imaginative use of library material, laboratory equipment and exploratory discussion—these are part of the challenge produced for the teacher.

If he is imaginative enough in his approach to the subject; if he can arouse the need for knowledge in any or all of the members of such classes; providing even that he succeeds in covering fully the quantity of instruction set down for the course and causing his students to retain most of it, this classroom teacher is working against odds to educate his charges.

He is meeting, in one way at least, a "double challenge," because it is more difficult to instruct a child who is simply not interested than it is to meet the constant directives and tangents of an inquiring mind. With the latter, certainly, answers can be found through research.

Yet it is this factor in local education which seems to have produced a remarkably general feeling in the survey that the gifted child and his less-demanding classmate should be separated from one another.

In their answers, East Stroudsburg State Teachers College faculty members endorse the theory of homogeneous grouping. There are some samples of STC faculty opinions. Each quote is from a separate faculty member:

"We should improve and enlarge testing programs, begun in early grades, with continuous follow-ups on results. Encourage and assist students to progress at the rate and to the extent of their individual capabilities. We must dispel the notion that democracy means everyone must be on the same level of learning—which inevitably is mediocrity."

"Good teachers can detect such children (the gifted) without too much difficulty. It takes superior teacher to challenge their ability."

"Educational testing will determine most of the gifted pupils. Some, however, mature at a later date. We should inaugurate special classes for them. We need to break down the egg-head stigma (anti-intellectualism)."

"We should meet the challenge of the gifted child by providing more teacher time to meet in conference and discussion of the tests and grades now being earned by students. There is not enough collaboration among teachers to determine who the better students are."

"Pupils of higher ability are recognized readily. 'Section' them with the superior teachers (who are) also easily recognized. Do not hold all sections to similar levels of achievement. Let 'A' pupils and 'A' teachers forge ahead."

"We can identify more able students by testing. Get the best ideas Europe has. They have been using this system for 50 years. Put the gifted students in special classes or special schools and forget about this sociological hogwash that has been sweeping the country for the last 30 years."

Walker To Run With McGonigle
HARRISBURG (AP)—The Republican state organization has rounded out its ticket for the May 20 primary with slating of John M. Walker, Pittsburgh, for Lieutenant Governor and Andrew J. Gleason, Johnstown, for Secretary of Internal Affairs.

A 28-member steering committee recommended Walker and Gleason Saturday to run on the organization ticket with Arthur T. McGonigle, Reading, pretzel manufacturer, for Governor and Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Philadelphia, for the U.S. Senate.

Selection of Walker, 58, Allegheny County Commissioner and former state senator, removed him from the GOP gubernatorial contest.

George I. Bloom, Republican State Chairman, also announced the withdrawal of Maj. Gen. Daniel B. Strickler, former Lieutenant Governor, as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

Narrow Field
The two developments narrowed the field of GOP candidates to McGonigle, Harold E. Stassen, President Eisenhower's former disarmament aide and William S. Livingston Jr., former Secretary of Internal Affairs.

Walker and Gleason gave representation to western Pennsylvania on the GOP organization ticket. Bloom described the selected ticket as "a vote getter in all sections of the state."

Although Bloom said the steering committee's choice of Walker and Gleason is "tantamount to organization endorsement," county GOP leaders will be asked within the next few days to give their formal approval to the recommended slate.

Walker's recommendation came as a surprise since the former GOP Senate leader just two days before had criticized McGonigle as "the hand-picked candidate of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Assn." At that time Walker was an active candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

Bloom said both McGonigle and Scott expressed "confidence and pleasure" in the choice of their running mates.

"Mr. McGonigle was consulted on our choice," Bloom explained, "but he had no more active part than that."

He said the choice of Walker and Gleason was unanimous after consideration was given at least a dozen other party members who during the last few days had been pictured as available for either post.

35,000 Cheer Pope Pius
VATICAN CITY (AP)—About 35,000 Roman Catholics from Naples, led by three brass bands, gave Pope Pius XII a resounding expression of solidarity yesterday at a big general audience in St. Peter's basilica.

The Neapolitans, most of them farm workers, broke into a roar as the 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church was brought into the basilica on his portable throne.

May Date Continues To Be Goal

WILLIAMSPORT (AP)—The executive director of the Keystone Shortway Assn. urged Gov. Leader yesterday to speed up plans for construction of the 291-mile superhighway as part of his job development program.

"I have sent a letter to the governor urging that construction be started by Memorial Day," said C. E. Noyes, of Williamsport.

"Specifically, we have asked for construction of a 50-mile stretch of the road to be started this year, preferably in three equal sections," Noyes added.

He said location of a section in the east, west and central parts of the state would "give each area a break" on jobs.

Statement Soon
"We're looking for a statement soon from the governor about the shortway," he added.

Noyes said Highways Department officials promised late last year to break ground for the shortway by Memorial Day, May 30.

The shortway project will cost an estimated minimum of a million dollars a mile.

The group has already held organization meetings in 11 cities.

Noyes said the association has the three-fold objective of: Speeding up construction of the interstate highway; promoting its advantages to adjacent areas; establishing plans for future economic development of the area to be served by the shortway.

To carry out this objective the organization plans to collect $50,000 from a 27-county area to push the shortway program. The funds would be collected on the basis of two cents for each man, woman and child in each of the counties.

Noyes said the group will press for completion of the road—at the average rate of 43 miles a year—by 1965.

The Shortway will run from Sharon to Stroudsburg.

Two Mistakes Halt Test Launching
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Project Vanguard's most recent rocket firing was stymied by a faulty weather report that ate up more than an hour of valuable time and an absent crane operator who cost another crucial 15 minutes, it was learned Sunday night.

The weather report, informed sources said, forecast strong winds at high altitudes—winds that could have torn the Vanguard test rocket asunder if it had been fired.

Later it was found that the winds were not as severe as first believed.

The crane operator was not at his station when a sudden need arose.

The count had hit 35 seconds to firing time and the umbilical cord—the last tie with the earth—failed to fall away Saturday.

This same thing happened during an attempted Vanguard launching last January. At that time a Martin Co. test engineer, Paul Karpiscak, rode a "cherry picker" crane out to the rocket and plucked the umbilical cord away.

This time Karpiscak was ready to do the same job—but there was no driver for the crane.

The cherry picker crane has a bucket in which a man can ride to otherwise unreachable heights.

France Expands U.S. Suggestion
PARIS (AP)—France has expanded upon a U.S. plan for a Mediterranean defense and economic development pact in an effort to solve its troubles in North Africa.

The plan as outlined by Premier Felix Gaillard has one big hitch, however. It makes no provision for any change in the status of French-ruled Algeria.

Cooperation
Tunisia and Morocco, without whose cooperation Gaillard's plan never can get off the ground, demand independence for rebellious Algeria. The French say no, and so the reaction of these two former French protectorates to Gaillard's idea has been chilly.

Gaillard outlined his plan for the first time before the National Assembly last Friday. He offered the North African nations a share in the French exploitation of the Sahara, believed to contain one of the world's richest oil deposits.

Around the theme, Safety Conserves Manpower, Manpower Builds the Future, the conference will consider methods of safeguarding our changing labor force against the emerging technological hazards of the Space Age.

The next decade will face a relative shortage of men in the prime working ages and great increases in older and younger workers and women.

To the well known hazards of safeguarding our changing labor force against the emerging technological hazards of the Space Age.

Commemorating its 10th anniversary, this conference will assess past progress and problems as guides to the safety challenge of the future.

Great progress has been made in safety over the past generation but there were still 14,300 deaths and nearly two million injuries caused by on-the-job accidents in 1956.

The President will greet the expected 3,000 to 4,000 delegates and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell will greet them as will other leading figures of industry and labor.

Speakers and workshops will deal with several very important aspects of the safety problem.

WPVO Asks For Change In Rules

RADIO Station WPVO is appealing to its listeners to support a proposed change in the rules governing the hours of broadcasting permitted daytime standard-broadcast stations.

Chester S. Miller, station manager, yesterday invited the public to write to the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D.C., asking its approval of the amendment proposal.

According to Miller, the amendment would permit WPVO and 800 other daytime stations to be on the air from 5 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily the year around "to more adequately serve the area's communications needs."

Added Time
At present, daytime stations are allowed to operate only from sunrise to sunset. The proposed change would give the stations added broadcast time from September through April.

The current ruling, Miller said, was devised many years ago when there were relatively few stations in order to service the greatest population with radio coverage. Since the 1920s, there has been a great increase in the number of radio stations, particularly in the smaller communities and rural areas.

The clear and regional channel stations, with their broad coverage, cannot begin to handle the community needs which the small daytime stations are in a position to serve both adequately and directly at times when their service is needed most, the local manager said.

He advised WPVO listeners to write before March 17 to Chairman, Federal Communications Commission, Washington, 25, D.C., asking that local daytime stations be permitted to remain on the air from 5 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily the year around.

Dinner Held To Honor Committees

A DINNER honoring Democratic committeemen and committeewomen in Monroe County was held Saturday night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Principal speaker was President Judge Albert Reading of Carbon County Court. Judge Reading is a former member of the State House of Representatives who served in the General Assembly 21 years.

Van D. Yetter, Monroe County party chairman, presided at the meeting. The main speaker was introduced by L. A. Achterman, Monroe County solicitor and former State Assemblyman.

Reading urged committee workers to "be proud you are politicians" because "your job is to work at the grass roots level and explain the meaning of the philosophy and policies of your party. Without you no party could exist for the good of the people of your county or your nation."

"We want men and women with vision at the head of our party. We want them running for office. And we want them elected," he said. "This is where, through interpreting your party's meaning and attitude, you help to keep your party and your government strong."

"Important Strides"
He said that the Democratic State government has made "important strides to help the people." He praised Yetter, a candidate for General Assembly from Monroe County, for his legislative work during his two-year term in the House two years ago.

"The goal of the Democratic party is to elect the best possible people it can choose to the government of our State and nation. To do this we must have the educational work done by your committeemen and women on the local level. Sen. Clark—a man with vision, wisdom and courage who is working untiringly for the people of our State in Congress—could not be in the U. S. Senate today if it weren't for committeemen and women just like yourselves who helped Sen. Clark tell the story of the job Jim Duff was not doing in Congress," Reading said.

"On the State level, for many, many years, the Republicans absolutely refused to look into conditions of the mentally ill and handicapped. They turned their backs on our hospitals and welfare institutions simply because they didn't want to spend any money—the money that comes, in great part, from the manufacturers," he said.

"I fear what will happen if the State falls to the Republicans again. The Republicans just don't seem to have the social conscience that the Democrats do," he said.

"Keep in mind that you are working for the people and for your party. Then remember you're a politician and be mighty proud and happy you are one," he said.

Report
A report on the 62-member Democratic State Executive Committee's meeting to choose a State party slate was given by Forrest Smith, State Committeeman from Monroe County.

Smith said committee members from throughout the State were "very pleased" by the proposed Lawrence-Davis-Leader-Blatt ticket. He said that "we know that Lt. Gov. Roy Furman has many supporters throughout the State and in suburban areas . . . but it was the feeling of the executive committee that we have chosen the finest possible combination of candidates for the ticket."

Other officers attending in addition to those mentioned, were: Mrs. Ella Mae Shaw, committee secretary and president of the Monroe County Democratic Women's Club; Mrs. Reading and J. Joseph McCluskey, second vice chairman, and Mrs. Bessie Altman, vice chairman of the county committee.

Group singing was led by Kenneth Fritz. Those at the dinner sang parodies of four songs in which party candidates names or—in the case of "Arthur McGonigle Lies A-mouldering in the Stove"—the name of opposition candidates were used.

Jesus Loved Them

Jesus Finds Faith Of 'Greek Woman' To Be Truly Based On Religious Conviction

"For a certain woman, whose young daughter had an unclean spirit, heard of him, and came and fell at his feet . . ."

—Mark VIII: 25

By Patrick and Garrison
THIS woman whose persistent faith was tested by Jesus and found to be based upon true conviction, is referred to by Matthew as "a woman of Canaan," and by Mark as "a Greek, a Syro-phenician by nation."

As a matter of fact, the Jews referred to all Gentiles who spoke the Greek language and lived according to Greek customs and religion as "Greeks."

Even as it does today, adversity—the illness of her child—led her to implore the mercy of God. No doubt she had already prayed and sacrificed many times to the many deities of the heathen pantheon, but without effect.

Hearing of the Nazarene, she sought Him out and fell at His feet, crying:
"O Lord, thou son of David; my daughter is grievously vexed with a devil."

But Jesus did not immediately reply. Instead, He exercised her faith and her perseverance in belief. His disciples wanted Him to send her away, for they said, "She crieth after us."

It was the first time that a person who was not a worshiper of the God of Israel had asked Jesus for miraculous aid. Was her faith real, or was it a request made as a last resort, a final mother's plea when all else had failed?

"I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel," Jesus said, testing her further.

But this did not shake her belief in Him. Instead, she came and worshipped Him, saying:

"Lord, help me."

But still Jesus tested her sincerity and faith. "It is not meet to take the children's bread, and cast it to dogs," he said, using the familiar phrase of the time which referred to nations other than Israel as "dogs."

"Truth, Lord," she replied in her humility, "yet the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their masters' table."

Whereupon, Jesus granted her request, at the same time commending her for her intuitive knowledge of God's mercy to all who recognize and respond to Him:

"O woman, great is thy faith." He said, "Be it unto thee even as thou wilt."

So her daughter was made whole, and the woman found God through adversity.

Bangor Area Youths Arrested For Burglaries

Both Plead Guilty At Hearing

TWO BANGOR area youths pleaded guilty to burglary at a preliminary hearing Saturday before Peace Justice John C. F. Foelker and were returned to Monroe County Jail to await court action on the charges.

Foelker said a hearing on a second burglary charge will probably be held tomorrow. He said there was insufficient time to draw up informations on both cases after the pair was arrested Friday.

William Edward Hamm, 20, Central Ave., Bangor, and George Riley, 18, Bangor, RD. pleaded guilty to breaking into the Tom Williams Service Station on Park Ave. Tuesday night. A wrist watch, an electric razor and a small amount of tax money were taken.

They are also accused of entering Ackerman's Market, Broad St., from which $4 in cash and 14 cartons of cigars were taken.

Arrested At Homes
The pair was arrested by State Police from Stroudsburg and Easton at their homes. Stroudsburg police and Chief of Police Jesse Felker of Portland assisted in the investigation.

Police found bloodstains and finger prints on a piece of broken glass at the Ackerman store where the intruders had knocked out a basement window to gain entry.

Blood stains were also found at a diner in Portland. Police said employees of the diner told them Hamm was bleeding from a cut on his left thumb when he visited the diner early Wednesday.

The work done by these societies helps our crippled children and adults to become happy, productive, self-sustaining citizens, preserving both their human dignity and their abilities.

The Monroe County Society for Crippled Children and Adults began its annual fund drive last Thursday.

Plane Falls In Search For Youth
ALLEGHTOWN, Pa. — A Civil Air Patrol plane searching for a missing 9-year-old boy, crashed in a field at South Mountain near Emmus yesterday.

The pilot, Ralph S. Kuzer, 40, of Bethlehem, and his observer, Robert Gebhard, 18, of Pottsville, R. D. 3, were taken to Allegheney Hospital.

Kuzer sustained a jaw fracture and cuts about the face. Gebhard received cuts about the face and hands. Both were reported in good condition.

No Burning
The plane apparently was flying low and its wing scraped against the ground. It did not burn.

Hundreds of volunteers joined in the search for the boy, Godfrey Rzonca, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rzonca of Emmus. Godfrey is one of four children.

His parents said he was last seen at 10 a. m. Saturday walking toward railroad tracks leading to Dillingsville, near Emmus. They reported him missing at 1-30 a. m. and a full-fledged search began at daybreak.

Six divers entered an old mine hole on the outskirts of Emmus, but failed to find anything. They abandoned the search at 8 p. m. The search resumes Monday.

Record Total Of Claims
HARRISBURG, Pa. — A record 348,112 continued claims for unemployment compensation were filed with the Bureau of Employment Security for the week ending Feb. 28.

The bureau said the total is 28,620 above the previous all-time high set during the week ending Jan. 10 of this year.

Estimation
However, the Bureau estimated that some 25,000 of the claims resulted directly from the heavy snow storm several weeks ago that stopped some applicants from reaching offices to file claims, and in other cases forced plants to shut down.

New claims were down 4 per cent of 50,082 for the week as a result of stepped-up employment in construction and mining, as well as in manufacturing industries.

Fair Opens In Vienna
VIENNA, Austria — Vienna's spring trade fair opened yesterday with 3,500 exhibitors from 20 nations.

West Germany, with a total of 1,057 exhibitors, topped the list of foreign firms represented, followed by Great Britain with 144, and the United States with 141.

The Soviet bloc is represented by East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary and the Soviet Union.

Charles Booth Ends Career

Judge Murphy Refuses To Comment On Green's Motion
U. S. REP. William J. Green Jr., Philadelphia Democrat, has started legal action to delay his trial on charges involving fraud at the Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot.

A petition filed Friday by Green asked that Federal Judge John W. Murphy withdraw as presiding judge in the trial scheduled for March 24, because of the "long and close political and social relationships" between Green and the judge.

Green said in the petition that Judge Murphy "will be unable to afford me a fair trial and impartial trial because of his desire to prove his integrity and lack of favoritism."

No Word
There was no immediate word on who would rule first on Judge Murphy's status in connection with Green's trial.

Judge Murphy declined comment on the motion Saturday but did say his jurisdiction in the matter was limited entirely to determining whether the motion had "legal sufficiency."

There are two other federal judges in the Middle Pennsylvania District where Green's trial will be held. They are Albert L. Watson and Frederick V. Follmer.

If they should rule against Green, the congressman could file an appeal with the Third U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia.

Plastic Road Under Plans
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — An experimental clear-plastic road will be built next summer by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways.

Robert G. Farley, chief engineer for the department, disclosed the project Saturday at the 36th annual meeting of the Associated Pennsylvania Constructors, but he added the exact location of the roadbed has not yet been decided.

The plastic roadway will join two other state experimental projects now in operation—a rubber road in Lancaster County and seamless concrete roads in part of central Pennsylvania.

WEEKLY INSURANCE LETTER

Dear Friends:
Why does a driver break the law by exceeding speed limits?

A Boston Psychologist interviewed 400 motorists arrested for speeding to get the answer to this question. He has summed up his findings in 10 reasons for speeding, which were presented to traffic authorities at the National Safety Congress.

We might well try applying one of the Psychologist's 10 reasons for speeding to ourselves. Here they are:

1. Temporary relief from mental and physical tensions.
2. A hidden impulse to violate the law in order to be caught and punished.
3. Suicidal inclinations.
4. A compulsion to surpass other cars on the road.
5. Extreme Anger.
6. Simple need to flee a bad situation — running away subconsciously.
7. Abounding Joy.
8. Late model car design gives no feeling of speed.
9. A growing belief that present cars are built for higher speeds than the law allows.
10. Speeding by deliberate choice.

Most speeders will say that only the last three reasons could apply to them. What do you think? Speed is the foremost cause of serious accidents. Slow Down and Live!

Sincerely Yours,
Walter Mc Clelland

GOVERNOR GEORGE M. LEADER obtained the first sheet of Easter Seals from Raymond Guyton, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Guyton, Altoona — Pennsylvania's 1958 Easter Seal boy. Raymond was selected to represent all physically handicapped boys and girls—nearly 12,000 of them—being served by 52 local crippled children societies affiliated with the Pennsylvania Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. The Easter Seal appeal ends April 6.

Leader Supports Seal Campaign

GOV. GEORGE M. LEADER has designated the period from March 6 to April 6 as Easter Seal appeal time for the state of Pennsylvania.

In his proclamation, Leader noted: "The care, rehabilitation and treatment of physically handicapped adults and children is carried out by the National and Pennsylvania Societies for Crippled Children and Adults."

"These societies perform invaluable services in the fields of special work; employment; psychological testing; guidance; speech; physical and occupational therapy; providing equipment; prosthesis and transportation."

Helpful
The work done by these societies helps our crippled children and adults to become happy, productive, self-sustaining citizens, preserving both their human dignity and their abilities.

The Monroe County Society for Crippled Children and Adults began its annual fund drive last Thursday.

Strategy Aimed At Soviet Union
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Current Western disarmament strategy is aimed primarily at getting the Soviet Union back into a new round of private East-West talks.

Western diplomats said that is the purpose of the proposed meetings of the 25-nation U.N. Disarmament Commission and the Security Council later this month.

Authoritative sources said that the two meetings, if held, would be purely procedural.

Western Powers
The Western powers were reported to have in mind a Security Council resolution simply calling on all parties concerned to tackle the disarmament problem once more in private negotiations.

There would be no mention of which countries would take part subjects to be covered, or where or when the talks would be held.

Informed quarters said Ambassador James J. Wadsworth, U.S. disarmament negotiator, had outlined the Western strategy in detail to the Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev, and asked for his reaction.

Check All Angles First
ORILLIA, Ont. — A passenger yanked the emergency cord of a Toronto-bound Canadian National Railway train at Washago Saturday when he discovered a $500 check missing.

Constables
Two constables arrived, and after a brief search, located the check. The man's wife had it. The train continued on—35 minutes late.

No Application By East Borough
AN EAST Stroudsburg borough official said last night the borough has not made any application for federal sewage plant construction aid.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A Kohler Co. publicity man acknowledged today he had hired a cameraman to photograph any member of the Senate Rackets Committee or staff seen talking to a lawyer for the United Auto Workers Union.

You Can Count On Her

The oft-stated observation that America's greatest asset is its youngsters comes to mind this week as more than three million Girl Scouts launch their annual observance of Girl Scout Week by rededicating themselves to the service of their neighbors and communities.

Through their 1958 theme, "You can count on her—to be of service," Girl Scouts across the country are undertaking service projects to help the aged, the handicapped and the sick. For the 2,300,000 girls and 700,000 adults in Girl Scouting, service projects take many forms.

Monroe Countians have long been familiar with the Girl Scout movement and its accomplishments for the betterment of the community and for the girls themselves. Countless benefits have come about because of the fine training the girls receive as scouts.

Their parents and adult leaders often share in these rewards, too, because they find it inspiring to work and play with youngsters holding the high ideals embodied in the Girl Scout Promise and Laws.

This basic spiritual code of conduct undergirds the entire movement. On their honor, they promise to be dutiful to God and country, to help others and always strive to be trustful, loyal, useful, friendly, courteous, kind to animals, obedient, cheerful, thrifty and clean in "thought, word and deed."

There is one sad commentary on the Girl Scout movement, however: the number of adult leaders is not nearly enough. For every girl 7 to 17 in the United States who is a scout, six are not. Leadership for the six is the great need of this hour.

While fully aware that this deficiency may never be overcome, although signs indicate it will lessen considerably, we are nevertheless confident that Girl Scouting will continue to grow in size and in stature as it has for 46 years.

And we are doubly sure that every week of the year, not just this week, each Girl Scout will renew her efforts to live up to the theme, "You can count on her—to be of service," and the Girl Scout Law, "A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others."

'Now We Are One'

Good Evening Ladies!

Believing Simple Truths

By Ken Duval

There is no oath more solemn than the one a man takes during the wedding ceremony, nor one a woman is more likely to believe, but I think there is need for still another. It is one that will impress a wife with the sincerity and veracity of a husband's simple statement of a simple truth.

This oath, on which I am working and already have a first draft, should carry all the weight of the Allegiance to the Flag, the presidential oath of office, the anti-communist pledge and the promises the girls of the WCTU make to shun the deadly martini. It could become an historic document.

The prime purpose of this oath is to bring an end to the rubber hose treatment I get when, for example, that certain party, whose name I am forbidden ever to mention here, asks me what I think of her new dress. I look at it and say, from the bottom of my heart, that it looks fine. She then asks if I'm sure. I say I am. She then wants to know whether I'm not just being nice about it and I say I always try to avoid being nice. She says she wishes she knew what I'm really thinking—and that's where I need this oath I'm talking about.

Let's consider what happens when a sudden summer rain squall hits the house. I run up stairs and close all the windows, returning drenched down my front.

She asks did I close all the windows, including the one in the back bedroom and I say I did. She says that if I didn't the rain will ruin the bedspread her mother gave us for Christmas and I tell her not to worry. I shut the window. She asks if I'm sure and I say I am.

The Once Over

by H. I. Phillips

Harry Truman and current pro wrestling performers seem to have something in common. No holds are barred and it's good sportsmanship to "butt," "goUGE," "heel" and jump on an opponent. If a wrestling show isn't rough enough you can switch to Harry, and vice versa. It is commonplace for the grapplers to throw each other out of the ring and slug the referee. The resemblance to the ex-president's speech routine is remarkable. It's out the window with the rules, and any resemblance to dignity is purely accidental. Chances are the public gets the same kick out of Harry that it gets from wrestling shows, since it loves knock-down and drag-out techniques. But even Democrats accept it as a matter of showmanship and admit they would be offended if they believed Harry wasn't mainly out for laughs, punch-lines and wider coverage of his walks around the block.

Ike is under such rough attacks in the pattern of "westerns" that his bodyguard should include Wyatt Earp. "High Noon" didn't have any more suspense than is created any time Mr. Truman walks down the street toward a banquet hall or a Democratic rally. Only question is whether he didn't go much too far in slurring the President of the United States, and victorious commander in a world war, as needing the same advertising plugs and sales pitches required to put across breakfast cereals, soaps, tooth pastes and other products.

The American people "like a hero and fall for all sorts of soap and tooth paste advertising about him," said Harry. There are even Democrats who think he should be penalized for unnecessary roughness. Krushchey and Bulganin seem to have kept their punches higher than that in any reference to a President who spent his life in his country's service, directed an epic channel crossing and made Der Fuehrer a bush-leaguer.

She says I was sure six years ago, too, and the rain came in and ruined the plaster, costing us a pretty penny. I say that, as God is my judge, I closed the windows, but she goes up to see for herself.

More Uncertainty

Calling upon Dietz to witness my statements isn't enough. Let's say we're getting dressed to go somewhere. She asks me if I really want to go to this party and I say I do. She says I don't really like the Harold Carlises and I say I like them very much. She says I don't look very enthusiastic about it and I say that, if I didn't want to go, all hell couldn't get me out of the house, and did I have to go into my ballet of the Faun and the Maiden to show my enthusiasm? She says I'm always so creative she never knows what's in my mind.

I'm not concerned so much about alibis to get off the hook for some ordinary sin. I just want to be believed in the simpler things, like those above. So, the oath I'm working on will have to be strong, bringing in, perhaps, all the minor and major gods from the dawn of mankind's development as a deity-conscious individual down to the present, with maybe a smattering of Faust's pledge to the Devil, and winding up with the hope that I drop dead in agony on this very spot if I'm not telling the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

When I get real glib in the recitation of this oath, I'll use it one evening when she asks if I'd just as soon eat out somewhere because she is too tired to cook and I say, sure, I would. I'd just as soon eat out, and she says am I sure because she might manage to stagger around the hot kitchen for an hour or so.

It is then I'll put my hand on my heart, turn my eyes skyward and say, "By the beard of the Prophet, by my mother's sacred memory..." Five will get you ten she'll say, "Yes, but are you sure?"

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

Starting its third year at Mark Hellinger Theatre on Saturday afternoon (March 15), "My Fair Lady" has been a sellout, plus forty standees, at each of its 831 performances... in its two years in 51st St. the musical has had 1,323,712 customers who forked up $7,242,526 to cheer Rex Harrison and Edward Mulhare as Henry Higgins and Julie Andrews and Sally Ann Howes as Eliza Doolittle... The touring company, headed by Brian Aherne and Anne Rogers, will complete its first year on Monday night, March 17. Now in its 20th week at the Shubert, Chicago, it has rung up $4,592,716 in thirteen cities including such show-starved communities as Rochester, Des Moines and Memphis... Fittingly enough Texas gave this dilapidated its biggest week, $178,606 in Dallas last October... Add the loot picked up in pre-Broadway stays in New Haven and Philadelphia, and the receipts for the two companies exceed $12,000,000.

We have a list of 26 people who have done the most to keep scouting active in Barrett Township. They are to be complimented.

Strauss Tries Again

Washington, March 9 — Atomic Commission Chairman Lewis Strauss is going to try for a second term, after all.

Present term of the controversial New Yorker expires June 30. Several months ago he let it be known he'd had enough of the Capital, and eagerly looked forward to returning to private life. But no more.

In a complete backstage flip-flop, Strauss is now doing his utmost to ensure retention of his $22,500 job.

That will take quite a bit of doing — in the Senate! So far as the White House is concerned, Strauss' reappointment is a cinch. In fact, his explanation for changing his mind is that it was solely at the behest of President Eisenhower.

As Strauss relates it, when he informed the President of having difficulty in "finding a suitable successor," the President insisted he continue as AEC chairman for the remainder of the Administration. In addition to being AEC head, Strauss is also the President's personal atomic adviser, and selected the four other members of the present Commission.

Says Strauss, "I could not refuse the President's request to stay until he leaves office in 1961. I owe it to him to serve as long as he wants me to."

But while ace high in the President's esteem and dead certain he will renege him, Senate approval is highly conjectural.

Strauss' standing with the Joint Atomic Committee is very different from that at the White House. For most of the five years he has headed the AEC, he has been at bitter loggerheads with leaders of this powerful congressional group.

On two occasions, they enacted legislation for the expression purpose of curbing him. One of these exceptional provisions requires Strauss to keep the other Atomic Commissioners apprized of what he is doing. He had been making important policy without consulting them.

Currently, he is hotly feuding with Committee leaders over two major measures: A large-scale atomic power program, and exchange of secret data with friendly nations.

At Strauss' last appearance before the Committee, he clashed angrily with Senators Clinton Anderson (D.N.M.), vice chairman and Albert Gore (D.Tenn.), who led the fight against Strauss several years ago on the stormy Dixon-Yates contract.

Relations between Strauss and Committeemen have become so strained that he is now staying away from them as much as he can.

For the first time, he is letting other AEC members, particularly Dr. Willard Libby, former University of Chicago chemistry professor, carry the ball in dealing with the Committee on important legislation.

Also in his effort to win friends and influence senators, Strauss is giving luncheons and dinners.

There have been a number of these social occasions in the past month, and others are contemplated. They have been very pleasant affairs, but have suffered from a serious deficiency.

None of Strauss' critics on the Joint Committee, and few Senate Democrats have accepted his invitations.

Sensors Anderson and Gore are making no bones of their intention to fight his confirmation for a second term. Says Anderson, "We will scrutinize his record line by line, and look him over hair by hair." Gore is even more specific. "The whole Dixon-Yates mess will be rehearsed in full detail."

So it is very much a toss-up whether Strauss' decision to seek a second term will work out or not.

Note: There is an old saying in the Capital, "Many come here, but few ever go back home."

Fallout — The Atomic Energy Commission is investigating reports of "spying" at the Sandia Base in New Mexico. These charges were made by employees of this highly classified installation where atomic weapons are made. . . The Navy is being asked for a report on plans to build a huge atomic-powered dirigible. Word of that has reached Rep. Melvin Price (D.Ill.), chairman of the Joint Atomic Research Subcommittee and he wants to know what it's all about. . . Closer nuclear relations between the U.S. and France are urged in a forthcoming report by the Joint Committee. It will state "The French atomic program is generally under-estimated in the U.S. Committee members were greatly impressed with the magnitude of France's effort and the national pride in atomic developments. France is now producing plutonium and planning an expanded atomic power program. Cooperation with French scientists and French leaders in this field is strongly urged."

... The Atomic Commission has launched a study of the use of atomic developments for the conservation of food, drugs and other materials. Explaining this plan to the Joint Committee, AEC Chairman Strauss wrote, "This study is being undertaken since it appears that successful application of radiation of high power output in industry would have national economic significance. The Army has been pursuing an intensive food irradiation program. Possible application other than in the food field include sterilization of drugs and surgical supplies, induction of chemical reactions."

The 'Message' Of Explorer II

The failure of Explorer II to operate as expected after a Jupiter-C four-stage missile flipped the satellite up to the edge of space is an object lesson in overconfidence for Americans.

Our scientists frankly are puzzled as to what became of the satellite cylinder. If it ever did go into orbit around earth, its radio blacked out. They think it didn't, but they're not sure what happened to it.

This isn't too surprising. Our technicians can't even guarantee mechanical perfection for automobiles or airplanes, much less missiles and satellites. The "see, we can do it too" attitude many Americans adopted after the success of Explorer I and the mental down-grading of Russian accomplishments in the satellite field were far too premature.

The Communists can't crow about perfection, either. A noted British scientist and writer, Arthur Clarke, has revealed that world-wide observer reports indicate Russia tried to launch a third satellite and it failed to go into orbit. And no one knows how many failures the Communists had before their Sputnik I and II successes.

The two major powers on both sides of the Iron Curtain will be making sensational strides into space within the next decade or two. Manned satellites, observation rockets to the moon and nearby planets, and perhaps man's first trip through space, will be accomplished before this century becomes too much older.

But these will be one-shot affairs. Until satellite launchings and trips through space become more than a matter of chance, man will not be able to boast that he has conquered this new element.

Facing Gang Problem

I attended a luncheon to influence newspapermen to favor PAL. The New York City police sponsor organization, which through some 40 centers interests boys and girls in the idea that gangs could be tamed and there is just as much fun.

I did not think that the idea was adequately presented. It was played down, perhaps because public officials fear stating a case with adequate and truthful drama lest they be accused of giving their city a bad name.

This is bunk because when children play at murder, the situation is real bad. Also for some reason, all that those who run PAL can raise is about $750,000 a year which is chicken feed for the job that needs to be done. New York, where some women buy dresses at $2,000 a piece, can afford $5,000,000 a year for this kind of work.

After all, cops cannot go out raising subscriptions because that soon degenerates into graft and blackmail. For this an effective citizens' committee is needed with enough gumption to ask for the right amount of money to do something about youngsters who are unwanted because of their racial and color and linguistic distinctions and who know that they are unwanted.

Gangs By Nationality New York gangs have always been organized by the newest element in the population. The notorious Five Points gang of Horatio Alger's time or the Hell's Kitchen gang half a century ago was composed principally of the Irish.

The Gas House and the Car Barn gangs were Irish, the latter with some Germans. There are no Irish or German gangs in New York today, just as the Jewish and Italian gangs are disappearing. These immigrant populations have been to a lesser or greater degree assimilated and integrated, to use fancy terms for a normal process of older generations dying off and the newer generations seeking to be like everybody else.

The newer population in our big cities, particularly in New York, is Negro and Puerto Rican. The latter have a particularly difficult time because Puerto Ricans do not regard themselves as Negro and reject the secondary status which is the lot of the American Negro in northern big cities. The Puerto Ricans resent the racial discrimination tion and the fact that they are unwanted except on Election Day when the politicians need their votes.

Because politicians are anxious to avoid offending voters, they do not face this gang problem honestly. They avoid saying that gangs are generally made up of persons of the same racial, religious, or neighborhood affiliations. The present gangs in New York are principally Negro and Puerto Rican, with a few whites intermingled by geographic accident.

The essential difference between present gangs and those of the Prohibition Era or half a century ago or a century ago is that the age of the gangsters continues to be younger. J. Edgar Hoover has, for many years, been calling attention to the fact that the criminals of the United States are constantly growing younger. These boys and girls do not get a chance to be decent. When a boy of 11 commits murder, it is a pitiful spectacle.

It is probably correct that there is not a single teen-age gang that could not be diverted into a team or a group of teams. These boys want to be active. They want to make their mark. They want to be admired by girls. They want to be heroes.

As all of my childhood was spent under conditions identical with those which nowadays shock the country, I can have some understanding of the problems that face a growing child who has nowhere to go and nothing to do. The child does not know that the real curse that has befallen him is that his parents have chosen to live in the big city where human beings are crowded into tenements like cockroaches.

What does a child do in the city? In my day, it was still possible to play on the streets but now the streets are full of automobiles. Where does a child go for companionship? It depends upon luck. Where there is a social settlement or a PAL club, the child could be fortunate. Otherwise, the gang offers interest and excitement.

So what we need is loads of money for such organizations as PAL, millions of dollars to assimilate these kids into American life.

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

Well, I did it! Whether or not I'll have the courage to wear it is another matter. But just the fact that it's hanging, complete with dangling tags and a belt you can use if you chicken, on the closet door is enough to make me feel I'm living dangerously.

As a matter of fact, it took a very special combination of circumstances to give me the courage enough to buy a chemise dress, anyway. The first factor was a general dissatisfaction with things as they are, including me and my wardrobe.

The second was the spirit of adventure that hits you when you're in a totally strange town where nobody knows you, and while the clerks may nudge each other when you're trying the thing on, they can't put a name to you.

And the third factor was that I still hadn't sent the children's allowance and so I had money in my pocket. I'm sure they'll be very understanding about going without carfare, stamp money, etc., when they know that I've got a new dress hanging on the closet door that I'll probably never wear.

Or will they? Well, anyway, there it hangs, and every time I pass it, I chuckle to myself. However, there's no sense you're looking me up and down. It will take many a week to work up my courage to wear it outside the house.

And I'll give you fair warning, don't fall in the trap that one of my daughter's friends did. I was enthusiastically telling him that I'd bought a sack dress.

"You did?" he answered politely. "Have you got it on?" That was one of my best fitting dresses I had on, I'll have you know!

Most Successful People Create Their Own Luck

By Anne Heywood

Why is it that successful, happy and prosperous people almost invariably look back on their early struggles with pleasure and affection?

I used to think it was just because they had forgotten how horrible the early days were, but now I've come to the conclusion that to them, all kinds of days are good. The capacity for finding pleasure and fun, in even the dreariest circumstances, is one of the common denominators. It seems to me, of successful people.

For example, the other day I was talking with Inez Henry, Assistant to the President of the Berry Schools in Mt. Berry, Ga.

Lectures Widely

In addition to her administrative duties, Miss Henry goes all over the country lecturing about the schools and is co-author of a charming book called "Miracle in the Mountains." She makes no bones about the fact that she comes from a very simple background and encountered considerable poverty and difficulty in her early life.

Inez was one of eleven children in a farm family in Southern Georgia.

Helped at Home

From the time she was six, Inez helped take care of the little children and handled a good deal of the cooking, to say nothing of churning, laundering and cleaning. But to hear Inez talk about it, it was a fascinating period. In fact, her approach toward the hardship she encountered was a key factor in her present successful life.

In her spare time, Inez took care of the sick or injured animals on the farm. As she explained, this was a habit that altered her whole life.

There was, of course, no chance for her to have any education beyond the ordinary village school, but Inez was ambitious and wanted to go to college.

Had No Money

She heard about the Berry School—which is free to children who do not have money enough to go elsewhere. Finally she wrote to the school and, much to her surprise, was accepted. The major difficulty was that she had neither the fare to get there nor any prospect of finding it.

Then one of those things happened which I used to call luck until I found they were perfectly predictable and had nothing whatever to do with luck or chance.

Didn't Waste Time

The "unlucky" child would

have trudged through the work she had to do, and would have spent her spare time feeling sorry for herself, day-dreaming or envying luckier girls. But Inez spent her spare time in a busy, productive and happy manner—caring for sick animals—and thus created her own luck.

If you could use a change in your luck, make a strong effort to resist the tendency toward self pity that comes to all of us. Instead, put that energy into making your present happier and your future "luckier."

Parents Discuss Problems Of The Early Teens

The special problems of children "Needing High School" was the theme of the discussion of the Parents' Educator group of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine on Thursday and Friday nights in the auditorium of St. Matthew's Church.

Thirteen year olds, neither child nor adult, face a confusing time but with proper help from parents, it can be a very pleasant and satisfying time, the group decided.

Parents can help by helping the child to keep a proper perspective, and by emphasizing that graduation from eighth grade marks a beginning rather than an ending.

Social activities usually sweep through this age group. While it is wholesome and normal, parents can insist on guidance and supervision and that the affairs remain suitable for 13-year olds and not become too sophisticated.

Facing the choice of his life's vocation, the child should be encouraged to pray for guidance. He can find a welcome lifting of responsibility and fear if he is confident of heavenly guidance.

Mrs. Anna Ashcroft acted as moderator in the absence of Frances Ashcroft. The discussion groups are open to anyone interested, she announced.

Taking an active part in the Thursday night meeting were Mrs. Anna Bogen, Mrs. Margaret Fish, Mrs. Betty Shupp, Mrs. Irene Wolverton, Mrs. Margaret Mannhaupt, Mrs. Gladys Dittus, Mrs. Mary Dusing, Mrs. Blanche Stokes, Mrs. Anna Bittenbender, Mrs. Mary Burton, Mrs. Jean Bensing and Mrs. Edith Beech.

Those in the Friday night group were Mrs. Rita Hack, Mrs. Louise Baker, Mrs. Lorraine Hunt, Mrs. Anne Olenick, Mrs. Thelma Hatton, Mrs. Marg Brent, Mrs. Anna Farda and Mrs. Stephanie Zane.

Leighton Postmaster To Head Drive

POSTMASTER of Leighton has been named Chairman for the April Crusade for Cancer Control for the Northeast section of Pennsylvania.

Wilbur Warner, postmaster since 1934 received his appointment from Elmer Hess, M.D., State Crusade Chairman for the American Cancer Society.

Warner has been cited many times for his community work. From the Pennsylvania Medical Society he received the coveted Benjamin Rush Award, and a like honor from the Carbon County Medical Society. The American Legion Distinguished Service Gold Medal, the Congressional Selective Service Medal and the Freedom Heritage Foundation Award have all been awarded to him.

Volunteer Award

Last November at the Hotel Pierre in New York he received the Lane Bryant Foundation award in honor of his services as an individual volunteer in the country. His choice was made from candidates throughout the entire United States.

Dr. Hess in announcing the appointment of Wilbur Warner said, "We are pleased and proud to have Warner accept this job. In the past he has shown steadfast devotion to a working desire to help his fellowman."

"It is dedication such as this which has marked the progress of the American Cancer Society in lowering death rates to saving the lives of one in every three persons with cancer. During April, this fight is recognized, though it continues throughout the year," Dr. Hess stated.

The territory over which Warner is chairman includes Monroe, Carbon, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Pike, Susquehanna, Wayne and Wyoming counties.

Leader Seeks Civil Service Protection For Personnel

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania says technical personnel in the state highways department should have civil service protection.

He says this is necessary to prevent staff changes resulting from each new administration.

"You're going to have feast or famine until we get continuity (through civil service) in the highways department," the governor spoke Saturday night at a banquet marking the close of the 36th annual meeting of the Associated Pennsylvania Constructors. More than 500 contractors and officials attended.

The governor also urged government and industry to cooperate in overcoming the recession. He set two cooperative goals: Get the unemployed back on the job and give Pennsylvania the greatest highway system anywhere. Pennsylvania has more than 435,000 unemployed.

Foreman At Signal Depot Commended

TOBYHANNA—Donald Price, Cresco, General Foreman at the Tobyhanna Signal Depot has been commended as the "outstanding graduate" of a Maintenance Management Course at the U. S. Army Logistics Management Center, Fort Lee, Va.

Price received the highest grades in a class of 28 officers and civilians.

Col. Bernard S. Waterman, Commandant of the Fort Lee School, cited Price for his achievement and wrote: "Your accomplishment came as no surprise to the faculty since very early in the course you demonstrated an ability to penetrate quickly to the heart of complex problems, resolving it in a logical and workable manner. This analytical ability should be a great asset to you toward advancement to positions of greater responsibility in the logistics system."

Congratulations

Tobyhanna Signal Depot Commander, Col. Clifford A. Poutre, added his congratulations Saturday. "Your achievement," he told Price, "reflects great credit upon you and upon this Depot."

Price has been with the Tobyhanna Signal Depot since July 1953, when he transferred here from Baltimore. Prior to that he served with the Philadelphia Signal Depot. He began his federal employment at the New York Port of Embarkation in November 1940.

As general foreman at the Depot, Price supervises approximately 600 civilians in the repair and maintenance of Signal Corps equipment.

It takes a GIANT to keep America on the go

There are only 41,785 new car dealers in the U.S. to serve more than 49,000,000 car-craving families. Yet these comparatively few dealers perform a giant selling job in moving more than 6,000,000 new cars a year worth well over $15,000,000,000!

There are only 1,761 daily newspapers in the U.S. Yet every day they roll out more than 58,000,000 copies to do a herculean job of helping to sell America's automobiles from coast to coast.

Car dealers and daily newspapers have much in common. Both are upstanding local citizens vitally interested in local affairs. Back of almost every civic drive you'll find the local car dealer supporting it with all his weight. And right beside him, with equally ardent support, is the daily newspaper.

Car dealers, like others, have learned that the daily newspaper puts plenty of weight behind an advertiser's sales message, too. That's why newspapers, each year, carry the biggest share of automotive advertising. Use this giant to put the weight behind your advertising.
